MEMO ON COMPLIANCE WITH INFORMATION SECURITY REQUIREMENTS

WHEN USING THE CLIENT-BANK SYSTEM

(obligatory to be performed by persons who have the right to impose Advanced ES and/or Qualified ES and/or Simple ES on payment instructions and/or sign Requests for Certificates on behalf of the Client, as well as by persons responsible for computer transaction and administration with installed software of the Client-Bank System)

The effectiveness and safety of using the Client-Bank System largely depends on strict compliance with information security requirements during its transaction.

By providing this service, the Bank has created a convenient technology that ensures reliable protection of the company's payments, provided that unauthorized access by third parties to the Client-Bank System installed at the workplace, secret keys and security passwords to them is not allowed.

The reasons for unauthorized access can be both direct physical access by third parties to a computer with the Client-Bank System installed, and its infection with computer viruses and Trojan programs. Factors contributing to the compromise of secret keys are leaving media with secret keys in the computer's USB ports after the end of work or permanent storage of secret keys on its hard disk.

For its part, the Bank takes all measures to proactively respond to potential threats to information security and recommends observing the following rules of safe work in the Client-Bank System:

Basic rules:

1. Limit the access of third parties to the computer used by you to work with the Client System Bank. Ensure the safety of the room in which it is installed.

communicate in any way the meaning of passwords, codes, payment details, etc., as well as to demand any payments in favor of third parties

Note! It is not recommended to use mobile phone numbers without concluding a contract with mobile operators to obtain one-time authorization OTP-Codes.

3. Provide secure storage of Secret Keys on an external medium (tokens, etc.). Do not store Secret Key files on your computer's hard drive. Immediately after carrying out transactions using Secret Keys, disconnect their media from the computer, do not leave them permanently connected to the computer.

6. Use only licensed software obtained from trusted sources.

11. Do not install or save suspicious files obtained from unreliable sources, downloaded from unknown websites, sent by e-mail, etc. Such files must be deleted immediately. If you need to download a file, be sure to check it with an antivirus program before using it.

Auxiliary rules:

12. Limit access to the Internet from the workplace where the Client System is used Bank, only the necessary circle of trust resources (banks, counterparties, etc.).

27. Configure the Internet browser to prohibit automatic download and launch of files from the Internet;

28. For the security of authorization data in the Client-Bank System, refrain from storing user account data (login/password) in browsers. To automate the process of entering account data, use separate utilities for storing and managing passwords.

29. If you suspect that your computer is infected with viruses or other malicious programs (inadequate reaction to your actions, "freezing", inexplicable slowing down of actions, independent activity, the appearance of incomprehensible windows, etc.) - immediately notify the Bank to block your account in the Client-Bank System, contact the system administrator to remove the computer virus, followed by mandatory reissuance of Secret Keys\change of passwords;
